

INTERNATIONAL SUMMER SCHOOL WITHIN THE KIP PAVILION AT EXPO 2015

On April 10th, 2015, the Rector of the University Milano Bicocca, Prof. Cristina Messa and the President of KIP International Summer School, Prof. Luciano Carrino, signed an agreement for the realization of the International Summer School on the strategic value of local sustainable human development. The Summer School will be held inside the KIP pavilion at EXPO 2015 from August 31st to September 13th 2015.

The event saw the presence of a Cuban delegation headed by the Vice Minister of Higher Education of Cuba, Oberto Santin Cáceres, Prof. Alberto Giasanti, promoter of the initiative, Prof. Ida Castiglioni Director and faculty of the Summer School and Prof. Enzo Mingione, faculty.

The theme is the strategic value of sustainable human development at local level. The initiative will be realized in collaboration with Universities from Cuba, Nicaragua and Argentina.

The Summer School is framed within the construction of knowledge about development informed by an interdisciplinary and intercultural perspective. Activities, based on the encounter with experiences of local development present in the KIP Pavilion, will be organized around the contents of EXPO 2015 Nourishing the planet, Energy for Life, together with some of the thematic lines of the UN Platform for the Millennium and the Agenda post 2015, underlining that production, distribution and consumption of food is the axis for a human sustainable development.
