

How to uplift free and equitable market societies in practice?

Article by Jairo Morales-Nieto

In this article, published by the magazine Africagrowth Agenda (Vol.17 Issue 4, 2020), Jairo Morales-Nieto proposes how to reconcile the ideals of freedom of choice and distributive equality in market societies from the perspective of modern welfare economics and human development illustrated with concrete applications in the real world with real actors and in real-time.

Jairo Morales-Nieto is currently the Executive Director INAFCON, a research and consultancy firm based in South Africa. He has been an expert of the United Nations System on issues of peace, equality, and development for 25 years. He has been Director of large United Nations development programs in Latin America, Africa, Central Asia, and Europe (Switzerland and Balkans). He has been Director of the United Nations PRODERE Program in Nicaragua and UN Programs for territorial human development in Central America and South Africa.

The article is the second of a series of contributions on the topic Equality and Development that are being published by the Africagrowth Institute in the magazine Africagrowth Agenda.

Reading 4 - Text in English

How to uplift free and equitable market societies in practice?