

International System of Training Initiatives for professionals of sustainable development

The KIP International School and a group of professors, experts and universities from different countries are working to build an international system of training, action-research and innovation initiatives for professionals of sustainable development in line with the UN's 2030 Agenda.

The document prepared by this working group is intended to facilitate exchanges between stakeholders interested in creating an articulated system among organizations (universities, research centers, institutions) that implement training initiatives in different countries (undergraduate courses, masters, postgraduate diplomas, doctorates, etc.) and who want to share objectives, content and working methods in line with the 2030 Agenda, and establish collaboration with good practices of territorial development.
