

ILS LEDA NEW PUBLICATION

THE HOUSE OF INCLUSIVE AND SUSTAINABLE TERRITORIAL DEVELOPMENT

ILS LEDA - International links and services for local economic development agencies - has launched the new publication: The house of inclusive and sustainable territorial development.

The work intends to provide a comfortable tool or house, where the reader can find useful information for improving knowledge and implementing actions related to Local Economic Development (LED).

The work aims to offer a useful guide to scholars and operators on the one hand in orienting themselves on the main theoretical schemes and approaches that support local development processes, on the other in having a panorama of the practices carried out by important international institutions. Finally, the work proposes some tool kits which can be of help to those interested in how to implement local development processes, with particular regards to economic ones.

The first three documents can be downloaded from the ILSLEDA website.

To know more

The house of inclusive and sustainable territorial development in ILS LEDA website

